

THE CLIMATE REALITY PROJECT CLIMATE REALITY LEADERSHIP CORPS TRAINING IN NEW YORK CITY

APRIL 12-14, 2024

The Climate Reality Project is excited to host its signature training in New York City in 2024! This April, join former Vice President Al Gore and The Climate Reality Project for an inspiring leadership training focused on building a better future powered by clean energy.

The Northeast and Mid-Atlantic have long led the nation in embracing bold policies to tackle the climate crisis. Now, with temperatures rising and extreme weather events growing more frequent and devastating across the region, Northeast and Mid-Atlantic states face the challenge of quickly slashing emissions, expanding green financing, and building resilient communities prepared for weather extremes.

The good news is that many of the tools to do it are already in our hands. Whether you're new to advocacy work but concerned about the climate crisis, or someone who's spent years as a dedicated champion, this training is for you. You'll have the chance to strengthen your climate communications, environmental and justice organizing, and advocacy skills while joining a global network of leaders working for practical solutions.

THE CLIMATE REALITY LEADERSHIP CORPS TRAINING EXPERIENCE

The Climate Reality Leadership Corps Training is your chance to gain a deeper understanding of the most up-to-date science behind how our climate is changing, as well as the wide-ranging solutions that can help us quickly leave fossil fuels behind and build a true net zero future, equipped for increasing extreme weather. You'll hear from leading voices in climate science, government, environmental justice, green business, grassroots organizing, and more. You'll also gain skills in digital communications, campaign and coalition building, and accessing climate funding.

WHY ATTEND THE TRAINING?

- Community Building. Hear from climate advocates across sectors during networking sessions and receptions and join other trained leaders to make local change in your community through our Climate Reality chapters program.
- Communicating Climate. Learn directly from former Vice President Al Gore on local climate impacts and solutions and how to educate others and advocate for change.
- Compelling Content. Enjoy a packed agenda of keynote speakers, panel discussions, and skill-building breakouts to learn the latest on how you can make a difference.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND THE TRAINING?

- Young people and students interested in joining the movement, taking their current efforts to the next level, or developing new climate advocacy skills.
- Grassroots activists and community leaders looking to broaden their networks, collaborate with fellow advocates, and strengthen campaign skills.
- Local and state government officials or civil servants eager to explore ways to drive a just transition for their communities.
- Anyone compelled to fight for climate justice and work for climate solutions.

WHAT WILL YOU GAIN FROM THE TRAINING?

- Climate advocacy tools on campaign building, accessing funding, and more.
- A path for collective action by joining our national network of local chapters.
- A wide network of like-minded leaders from grassroots organizations, community, labor, and faith groups, educational and civic institutions, green businesses and more.
- Opportunities to plug into Climate Reality's global campaigns and ways to make a difference.
- A deeper understanding of current and future climate policies and how you can support them in 2024.

ASL interpreting services will be provided. Spanish simultaneous interpretation will be made available for some sessions.

Following the conclusion of the training, attendees become Climate Reality Leaders, joining a network of nearly 50,000 activists in 190 countries around the world.
